

Gayle Smith

Gayle Smith is the former CEO of the ONE campaign. She served as Administrator of USAID, and at the National Security Council in two administrations, covering issues including global development, humanitarian response, global public health and post crisis reconstruction. Smith returned to government during the pandemic to serve as coordinator for the Global Covid Response and Global Health Security. Smith lived and worked in Africa for almost 20 years as a reporter and for non-governmental and international organizations and is now working on a project called Tales of How the World Works and Doesn't, a collection of stories about global events.
