POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Title: Intern, Geoeconomics

Location: Washington, DC Office

Pay rate: $18.00/hr

Founded in 1921, the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is a leading nonprofit membership organization, research center, and publisher, with headquarters in New York, an office in Washington, DC, and programs nationwide. It is dedicated to increasing America's understanding of the world and contributing ideas to U.S. foreign policy. CFR's 5,000+ members are leaders in international affairs and foreign policy. CFR also publishes Foreign Affairs, the preeminent magazine on global issues, and provides up-to-date information about the world and U.S. foreign policy on its award-winning website, CFR.org.

CFR's Blavatnik and Robina Franklin Williams internships give selected interns the opportunity to receive training in the field of foreign policy; as well as skills training in areas such as writing, research, and program planning and much more.

The intern will work with the Geoeconomics team to assist with the goal of providing informed expert analysis for the policy and diplomatic communities.

The major responsibilities of this position will include (but are not limited to):

- Track the news in the world of geoeconomics, including weekly email reports
- Research economic security policies, including export controls, tariffs, sanctions, investment screening, and industrial policy
- Conduct data analysis of investment holdings by U.S. private capital allocators and investors
- Contribute to drafting, editing, and analysis of materials for the team, including newsletters and social media posts
- Assist with other tasks surrounding additions and changes to other Geoeconomics department projects as needed
- Attend general Council meetings and other programs on foreign policy issues, as time permits.

Qualifications:

- Undergraduate or graduate student, majoring in international relations, economics, applied economics, business, public policy, finance, political economy, or a related field.
- Previous research or internship experience welcomed but not required.
- Strong attention to detail and resourcefulness
- Statistical programming skills preferred but not required.
- Strong research, writing, and editing skills.
- Proficiency using Microsoft Office Suite; experience using Excel or another data analysis software is preferred

CFR's internships are funded by the generous gifts of the Blavatnik Family Foundation, Robina Foundation, and the Franklin Williams Family.

The Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is committed to fostering a foreign policy community in the United States that is more representative of American society, recognizing that diverse backgrounds and perspectives contribute to broader, more informed participation in the foreign policy debate and lead to an enhanced understanding of the world and the United States' role therein. To that end, CFR is dedicated to continuing to advance diversity, equity, and inclusion (DEI) throughout its work and workplace by building a more diverse membership and staff, producing and dispensing thoughtful analysis on a broad range of foreign policy issues, and developing relevant, wide-reaching programming that also serves to expand the foreign policy talent pipeline to underrepresented populations.

The Council on Foreign Relations is an equal opportunity employer and actively seeks candidates from a diverse background.
