POSITION ANNOUNCEMENT

Title: Intern, Digital and Cyberspace Policy

Location: Washington, DC Office

Pay rate: $17.50/hr

CFR's Blavatnik and Robina Franklin Williams internships give selected interns the opportunity to receive training in the area of foreign policy; as well as skills training in areas such as writing, research, and program planning.

The Digital and Cyberspace Policy program addresses one of the most challenging issues facing the country in the twenty-first century: keeping the global internet open, secure, and resilient in the face of unprecedented threats. The team is looking for an intern to assist with research and content creation for their platforms, the Net Politics blog and the Digital Cyberspace Policy program website.

The major responsibilities of this position will include (but are not limited to):

- Assist with editing content creation for the Net Politics blog and the Digital and Cyberspace Policy program website
- Compile and summarize cyber-related news stories for the "Cyber Week in Review" on the Net Politics blog
- Track cases of state-sponsored cyberattacks for the Cyber Operations Tracker
- Provide support for the other related program projects through research, writing, and analysis

Qualifications:

- Undergraduate or graduate student majoring in international affairs, political science, computer science, or a related field
- Student should have completed the equivalent of four semesters of college coursework (not including AP classes in high school) by the time they begin an internship
- Previous research experience in the areas of internet policy, human rights, democracy promotion, computer science, or artificial intelligence
- Strong research, writing, and editing skills

Founded in 1921, the Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) is a leading nonprofit membership organization, research center, and publisher, with headquarters in New York, an office in Washington, DC, and programs nationwide. It is dedicated to increasing America's understanding of the world and contributing ideas to U.S. foreign policy. CFR's 5,000+ members are leaders in international affairs and foreign policy. CFR also publishes Foreign Affairs, the preeminent magazine on global issues, and provides up-to-date information about the world and U.S. foreign policy on its award-winning website, CFR.org.

CFR's internships are funded by the generous gifts of the Blavatnik Family Foundation, Robina Foundation, and the Franklin Williams Family.

The Council on Foreign Relations is an Equal Opportunity Employer. Quality, diversity, and balance are the key objectives sought by the Council on Foreign Relations in the composition of its workforce.
