

Lina Sergie Attar

Lina Sergie Attar is founder and CEO of Karam Foundation. She is a Syrian-American architect and writer from Aleppo. Named one of 50 Women Groundbreakers Changing the World in 2020 by Worth magazine, her articles and essays have been published in the New York Times, Chicago Tribune, Foreign Policy, Politico, the Atlantic, and BBC. She has appeared on CNN, NBC News, BBC News, Huffington Post, NPR, and other media outlets. Sergie Attar has spoken about the Syrian humanitarian crisis at schools, universities, and institutions including RISD, Harvard, University of Chicago, Johns Hopkins, Northwestern University, the New School, Phillips Exeter Academy, King's Academy in Jordan, the Chicago Council on Global Affairs, New America, the Aspen Institute, and others. Lina is a cofounder of the How Many More? project, serves as chair of the Board of Directors of The Syria Campaign, and is a nonresident fellow at New America.