

Lulu Garcia-Navarro

Lulu Garcia-Navarro Lulu Garcia-Navarro is the host of the New York Times podcast, First Person. Previously, she was the host of NPR's Weekend Edition. Garcia-Navarro also worked as an NPR correspondent based in Brazil, Israel, Mexico, and Iraq. Prior to that, she served in various capacities at BBC World Service, Voice of America, the Associated Press Television News, and AP Radio. Garcia-Navarro is the recipient of two Peabody Awards, a Lowell Thomas Award from the Overseas Press Club, an Edward R. Murrow Award from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, and the Alliance for Women in Media's Gracie Award for outstanding individual achievement. She received a bachelor's degree from Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service and a master's in international journalism from City University in London.