

Ned Parker

Ned Parker is an investigative reporter for Reuters. He is a former Edward R. Murrow press fellow at CFR. In 2015, he was a finalist for the Pulitzer prize for his reporting from Iraq for Reuters, and received press awards in 2016 from the New York Deadline Club and New York Press Club for his reporting from Iraq. He also published an essay in Foreign Affairs magazine in 2012, warning that Iraq was on the verge of becoming a failed state and risked fragmentation. The White House wrote a rebuttal, dismissing his findings and proclaiming Iraq's "remarkable progress." Parker left Iraq in 2015 after he received death threats over his coverage of rights abuses on the Iraqi government's side in the war against the self-proclaimed Islamic State.
