

Rob Portman

Rob Portman's career in public service spanned three decades and included service in three presidential administrations as well as two terms in the United States Senate and six terms in the United States House of Representatives. Portman currently serves as the founder of the Portman Center for Policy Solutions at the University of Cincinnati and a Distinguished Visiting Fellow in the Practice of Public Policy at the American Enterprise Institute. In the Senate, he played a key role in U.S. foreign policy through his seat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and as co-chair and founder of the Senate Ukraine Caucus. Known for his civility, successful bipartisan policymaking, work ethic, and grasp of a broad range of complex issues, over 220 of Portman's bills were signed into law by Presidents Biden, Trump and Obama during his tenure in the Senate. He served as the lead Republican negotiator on the bipartisan infrastructure law that is making historic improvements to our nation's roads, ports, rails, bridges, broadband and more.

In the George W. Bush administration he served in two cabinet-level jobs, as director of the Office of Management and Budget as well as United States Trade Representative. Under President George H.W. Bush, he served as associate counsel to the President and director of the White House Office of Legislative Affairs.
