

Sigrid Kaag

Sigrid Kaag is a former Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Finance of the Netherlands, with a distinguished career at the United Nations. She has served in senior roles in the Middle East, including as Special Coordinator for the Peace Process, Special Coordinator for Lebanon, and head of the UN mission on chemical weapons in Syria. In Dutch politics, she also held the portfolios of Foreign Affairs and Trade and Development Cooperation, and led the social liberal party D66. Beyond public service, she is engaged in business and the non-profit sector, and is widely recognized for her leadership.