

Barbara Demick

Barbara Demick is a former foreign correspondent, reporting out of Beijing, Seoul, Jerusalem, Cairo, Berlin and Sarajevo for the Los Angeles Times and Philadelphia Inquirer. She is also the author of three books, Eat the Buddha: Life and Death in a Tibetan Town, as well as Nothing to Envy: Ordinary Lives in North Korea and Logavina Street: Life and Death in a Sarajevo Neighborhood. She was an Edward R. Murrow Press Fellow at the Council on Foreign Relations in 2014-2015