

Sylvie Kauffmann

Sylvie Kauffmann is editorial director and foreign affairs columnist at the French newspaper Le Monde.

She was the editor in chief of Le Monde from 2010 to 2011. She joined the newspaper in 1987 as Moscow correspondent. Since then, she has been Eastern and Central Europe correspondent, U.S. correspondent based in Washington, DC, New York bureau chief, and reporter-at-large in Asia, based in Singapore.

In the Paris newsroom, she has headed the in-depth reporting section of Le Monde, before moving on to the deputy editor position.

Prior to joining Le Monde, Sylvie Kauffmann worked for Agence France-Presse as a foreign correspondent, in London, New Caledonia (South Pacific), Warsaw, and Moscow.

She graduated from Faculté de droit d'Aix-en-Provence, Institut d'Etudes Politiques d'Aix-en-Provence, Universidad de Deusto (Bilbao, Spain), and Centre de Formation des Journalistes in Paris.
